Greater Cincinnati Regional
Food Policy Council

About

The Greater Cincinnati Regional Food Policy Council is a cross-sector collaboration of food system leaders driving impact through advocacy and coordinated action. We work together to create a food system that is environmentally, socially, and economically resilient, for the benefit of all in our region. We accomplish this by building networks, increasing capacity, amplifying stories, and changing policies.

Meet Our Staff

Rosa Baker Food Policy Council Manager

Rosa is a community-driven network weaver and strategic changemaker with a unique blend of professional experience. She brings over a decade in the food industry, including five years at Sleepy Bee Cafe, and has spent the past three years advancing nonprofit impact work with United Way of Greater Cincinnati. Rosa is committed to environmental conservation and is currently pursuing a Master's in Biology through Miami University's Project Dragonfly, where she focuses on bridging human well-being and ecological restoration. She is passionate about facilitating meaningful dialogue, fostering collaborative partnerships, and championing social and environmental progress. In her free time, Rosa enjoys gardening, reading, crafting, and baking.
